New facility cannot house federal inmates and juvenile offenders

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER
The sheriff's department cannot use the newly constructed juvenile facility for juveniles and still house federal immigration and naturalization prisoners.
That was what Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson told the Board of Supervisors in their meeting Tuesday.
Peterson said that he received a letter from John Caplinger, district director of the New Orleans office of the Immigration and Naturalization division of the Justice Department, that stated that if the county were to place juveniles in the Hancock County Justice Facility all federal prisoners would be removed.

"We are right back in the same situation with no place to house our juveniles," Peterson said.
Peterson said that the county receives between $600,000 and $700,000 per year to house Immigration and Naturaliza-

Student gets flagpole, flag for his school

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL
Keith Herndon, a fifth grade student at Bay Middle School, said he was "proud and happy" about being instrumental in getting his school a new flag and flagpole.
A ceremony on Monday marked the flag raising occasion as his fellow students gathered around and waved miniature American flags. Mississippi 934th Air Force JROTC cadets from Bay High school raised the flag obtained by Congressman Gene Taylor. The flag had been flown over the nation's capitol in an honor dedication of Bay Middle School.

Taylor had a previous appointment and could not attend, but principal Diane Spraberry read a letter he sent to the school.
Herndon and his grandmother, Brenda Anderson, coordinated the campaign to restore the school's rusty old flagpole so the American flag could once again fly proudly over the school.
Anderson said that Herndon

Child hurt on playground at North Bay Elementary

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL
The Bay-Waveland School District is trying to remedy a potentially unsafe situation on the playground at North Bay Elementary School, said superintendent Paul Tisdale.
Sand has been spread underneath playground equipment to cover an asphalt surface where a child fell and hit her head on Thursday.
The student, fell from a seesaw and is reportedly suffering from a hairline fracture to her skull, according to her uncle, Scott Duncan.
Duncan has been alerting area media to voice his concerns that other children might be injured on the North Bay playground.
Tisdale said the child's mother was notified after she fell. The mother left work to go to the school to check on her child but left after her daughter said she was okay. Later that day, the girl became groggy, then nauseated. Her parents were alerted as to her condition and she was sent home.
Tisdale said he has talked with Duncan several times concerning the incident, but the child's parents have not contacted or advised him of her injuries.
"We're checking into it," Tisdale said of the situation.
"It's unfortunate that a child was injured," he said, "everybody wants a safe campus."

Diamondhead denies sewer service to casinos

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Diamondhead Water and Sewer District officials have decided not to supply service to the proposed Gold Strike and Lone Star casinos in Harrison County.
District manager Tony Esau said Wednesday the commission notified the casino developers several weeks ago of their decision.
"It's not going to happen," Esau said the commission told the developers.
The proposed development off the Bay of St. Louis is close to Diamondhead, but lies within Harrison County. Diamondhead is in Hancock County.
State water quality officials say how the proposed twin casino complex will deal with wastewater is but one of several key concerns pending questions at the Department of Environmental Quality.
While DEQ's commission had been expected to deal with permit issues for the casinos as early as October, DEQ's chief of water quality management, Robert Seyfarth, says it's probable the issue won't be on the agenda until after the first of the year.
Several alternative wastewater treatment proposals are being discussed, said Seyfarth, including pumping the waste to Gulfport or Pass Christian systems.
The prospect of two casinos locating in Harrison County, but using sewer treatment facilities in Hancock County, has been under discussion for months.
Officials of the Harrison County Wastewater and Solid Waste Management District recently granted permission for the two casinos to negotiate an agreement with the Diamond-head utility.

But that agreement, Harrison county officials said, would have to include an understanding that the casinos would disconnect from Diamondhead's system in the event that the Harrison district ever builds a plant sufficient to deal with the casinos' wastes.
"We just wrote them back and said, 'Hey, we can't do anything' along those lines, Esau said. "They wanted us to keep the sewerage and they'd keep all the money."
Hancock County's Board of Supervisors, meanwhile, went on record opposing the Harrison County casinos' hookup to Diamondhead.
While Diamondhead is bailing out of the wastewater picture for Gold Star and Lone Strike, there are other major

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

The toughest vocation

"Why should the diocesan preparation course for marriage be mandatory? I don't see the sense of it."

"Marriage is the most difficult of all human relations and undertakings, bar none," I began. "Since people in complicated professions and positions undergo extensive training, why should spouses-to-be not prepare at least a little?"

"The church authorities are merely doing their best to help couples succeed in marriage by understanding themselves, each other and the numerous complexities of marriage."

"I understand myself quite well," the young man continued somberly. "I don't need anyone to explain myself to me. I understand all I need to know about myself."

"Very many people twice and thrice your age do not understand themselves," I countered. "You are being very presumptuous to think you know yourself better than people much more experienced and knowledgeable than yourself."

"I just don't see why this preparation course should be mandatory," he insisted doggedly.

I was amazed that the youngster had not backed off by this time from a completely incredulous look in my eyes and a growing testiness in my voice. Breathing deeply, I strained to hold my patience and my restless tongue.

"In my 37 years as a priest, I have seen much devastation in marriage and families all around. I'm sure you are aware that the majority of marriages do not succeed. You are skating on thin ice if you do not stack the odds in your favor."

"Don't you believe that is true?" I turned my query to the bewildered young lady. My attempt to get her involved was a complete flop. She rolled her eyes confusedly and did not utter a single word pro or con.

"I still don't see the necessity of any preparation program for a couple about to be married,"

Thoughts for meditation:
 Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. Love never fails.

I Corinthians 13: 4 & 8

For being saved is a gift; if a person could earn it by being good, then it wouldn't be free — but it is: God declares sinners to be good in His sight if they have faith in Christ.

Romans 4:4-5

Jesus, thank You for the gift of Your life on the cross as a sacrifice for my wrongdoings. Please accept my repentance and make me Yours. Amen.

Giving: The best thing to give to your enemy is forgiveness; an opponent, tolerance; a friend, your heart; your child, a good example; yourself, respect; all men, charity.

Why should we be in such desperate haste to succeed, and in such desperate enterprises? If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it's because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away.

He has also set eternity in the hearts of men — that everyone may eat and drink, and find satisfaction in all his toil — this is the gift of God.

Bones found are those of female

BY CHARLIE MARSHALL
Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said that forensic pathologist Dr. Paul McGarry made quite a few discoveries upon examination of the human skeletal remains found last week in the buffer zone near Stennis Space Center.

The examination determined the remains were that of a white female, from 40 to 50 years of age, with a small frame, 5' to 5' 7", weighing from 110 to 150 pounds, the sheriff said. She had "wavy hair, grey or blond in color," Sheriff Peterson added.

Dr. McGarry found no indication of the way the person died, he said.

The sheriff said his department is in the process of "notifying other police agencies to check" the description against people who have been reported missing in those areas. Sheriff Peterson said enough teeth have been found to allow for a positive identification from dental records.

It was first believed that the skeletal remains were of a person who had been dead for three years or more, but that is not the case according to the pathologist's findings, the sheriff said.

The person has been dead for two to three months, he said. Investigators have "picked up more bones," and are "trying to find more," Sheriff Peterson said.

It is possible that a composite of the facial features will be created using the skull as a guideline if there are no leads in finding the identity of the deceased, the sheriff said.

Bay noise control under study

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis officials are studying a new proposal for noise control -- a third crack at legally getting a grip on obnoxious sounds in the city.

City attorney Donald Rafferty presented the proposal to a recent City Council session, suggesting a workshop be set to hammer out details of the proposed law.

Its provisions would cover a wide range of noises -- from boom boxes, roaring motorcycles, and persistently barking dogs to jack hammers and pile drivers.

"You need to be committed to it," Rafferty warned council members, saying the city would have to buy special sound-measuring devices and have someone designated to deal with noise complaints at all hours of the day and night.

Council members have expressed concerns over recent months over the lack of city controls over disturbing noises, such as the vibrating, pulsating sounds that some car stereo systems emit as they wind through residential neighborhoods.

Two proposals for curbing the noises were put on council's table for study, but were never resurrected for action.

The latest proposal outlines acceptable decibel levels for various types of indoor and outdoor noises, and the hours of the day and days of the week when certain noises are acceptable.

Exceptions to the rules range from noises generated by school bands and athletic events, and public entertainment on city parks and playgrounds, to emergency equipment. Construction noises would be exempted between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Mondays through Saturdays, and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Other exemptions include noises from operation of agricultural equipment between 6 a.m. and 8 p.m., tree and park maintenance activities, church bells and chimes, and emergency whistles and sirens.

Enforcement of the ordinance would fall under the police department, which would train field inspectors to use decibel-measuring devices. No ticket could be issued for violation of the ordinance, unless the noise perpetrator had been given a warning and time to tone down the noise first.

Special condition permits could be granted by the city for up to three days.

German expert shares bird information with students

By Anna Minor
MSU Ag Communications

Parrots, parakeets and other birds are becoming the family pets of choice for many. When these animals get sick, owners find it difficult to find veterinarians to provide care.

A class at Mississippi State University's College of Veterinary Medicine taught by an international expert hopes to give future veterinarians special training to meet this need.

Dr. Helga Gerlach, a bird expert from Germany, has been teaching a four-week, elective course on pet bird medicine to senior veterinary students.

"The course is designed to give the students more confidence in seeing birds in their future practices," Gerlach said. "We also are hoping to encourage some of the students to specialize in pet bird medicine."

Dr. Dwight Mercer, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, said Gerlach's visit is a unique opportunity for students to receive direct training from one of the leading experts in the pet bird field.

"Practicing veterinarians often run into a need for pet bird medicine as more people buy birds for pets," Mercer said.

"Through Dr. Gerlach's instruction, our students will be better prepared to meet this need."

Gerlach is no stranger to MSU since she served as a guest professor on poultry diseases from 1981 to 1984. During that time, she started the first pet bird hospital at the college.

"This was a new school when I came here in 1981, and there was something special in that," she said. "We all had this spirit of exploration in being the first professors and in building something new."

Gerlach is pleased with the progress the CVM has made since her last visit.

"When I was here before, we had to make our own name in getting the school up to international standards," Gerlach said. "I think the school did that since that time."

Gerlach's visit was made possible after her retirement as a professor in Germany. She has taught for over three decades in universities around the world.

"I have never had my connection broken with Mississippi State, so I accepted the opportunity to teach here again," Gerlach said.

Gerlach comes from a family with an agricultural background. At the end of World War II she decided to pursue a degree in poultry breeding and management.

"It was a very emotional choice because of all of the hunger in Europe at that time," she said. "I know by studying poultry I could help people because of its nutritional value and availability."

After working with several poultry farms, she decided to study veterinary medicine and specialize in avian medicine.

"I know my career was the right choice for me," Gerlach said. "I have never had any doubts."

Developers of a $100 million complex by Trump Diamondhead and Europa Cruises subsidiaries are moving ahead with plans that would require service through Diamondhead's sewer system.

Officials of the proposed complex, known as Casino World, have been in touch with Esau concerning the wastewater treatment facility. Since that casino complex lies within the Diamondhead district, Esau said, it would be allowed to connect with the residential resort's utility system.

"The big thing is (the other complex) was outside" the district's boundaries, Esau said.

A little off the beaten path in Bay St. Louis - 402 Dunbar, across from the ball park - is a treasure known to discerning shoppers from Ocean Springs to New Orleans.

Painted the color of summer sunshine, Yellowbird started out as just another house being renovated by proprietor Audrey Comeaux. But Comeaux fell in love with the charms of the elegant old colonial home and decided not to sell. Then the question was - How to make it pay? Comeaux, having worked in marketing for many years, knew there was an unfilled market here on the Mississippi Gulf Coast for good quality women's clothing and shoes at affordable prices. She decided to create the kind of place where she would want to shop herself.

The talented staff at Yellowbird gives each customer the kind of personal attention and service you expect at smart boutiques. In fact, they have been known to stop a sale rather than send a customer out looking less than attractive. They all welcome the chance to prove that their motto, "Nice clothes - cheap-cheap," is not just an empty advertising slogan.

The ambience of the shop itself is very appealing - sunny rooms, interesting architectural details, lovely clothing and shoes engagingly displayed. This is not your typical off-price women's clothing store, with racks and racks of duplicate dresses jammed everywhere you look, but never what you want or even expect. Yellowbird goes to market every month, bringing back just a few of each design.

In fact, that's one of the ways Yellowbird keeps its prices so low. And unlike other stores where you have to buy winter clothes in summer and summer clothes in winter, Yellowbird has great buys for the current season.

Visit Yellowbird soon for the particular brand of real Southern hospitality and personal service, including (on special occasions) mint juleps on the porch. Yellowbird really is your best bet on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

...looking for something to do and a place to go on Saturday night? ...may want to consider the Boy St. Louis Little

...new comedy by James Kirkwood, Legends is the production directed and staged by Roy Aultman with Kathleen Fischer as technical director.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. with admission at $7.50. Parental guidance is suggested.

The cast includes Carol Terrell, Martin Booda, Vincent Welch, Christine Johnson, Lora Harris and Jack Schornick.

I have been told those who attended the theatre last weekend really enjoyed the performances, so it sounds like it is a great production.

Contributing to many of the problems facing America today is the breakdown of family structure.

It seems just about every discussion I become involved with about the ills of our community, country, city, or state, is attributed to a lack of family unity.

This is not just my belief, but also that of most with whom I have spoken, in addition to the reports I have read from numerous organizations and groups.

In thinking about the times when I was a youngster in this area, most of the things we did as kids were within a family setting.

We did them with both mother and father, or at least one parent.

This involved work, which in those days for us was doing such things as cutting firewood, collecting coal for our heater, caring for animals, working in our garden, etc.

Fun times involved going to a picture show, floundering, shrimping, ball games and other activities. Most of these were done as a family.

Today many will say that both parents have to work. To that I will say, so what?

Both of my parents worked. They had to do so "in order to make ends meet," as the saying goes.

I know of other parents who also both worked, yet found time to do things with their children as a family unit.

One-parent family situations were very few when I was growing up, yet I feel this does not limit family activities.

We cannot turn back time, but we can search for those things which were successful in days gone by and try and implement them to today's lifestyles.

Who knows, maybe I am just rambling a bit too much.

The Waveland Civic Association will have a benefit Spaghetti and Meatball dinner on Sat., Nov. 19, 4 to 8 p.m. at the Civic Center on Longfellow Drive.

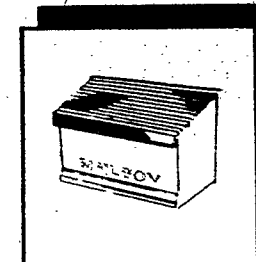

Proceeds are going to the Civic Association to be used to help refurbish their floats for the annual St. Patrick's Day parade.

Dinners are for a donation of $5 each, and tickets are available from Jay Lagasse, president, or any Waveland Civic Association member.

Tickets may also be purchased at the door, and take-outs are available.

As most of you know, the Waveland Civic Association brings you the annual St. Patrick's Day parade as well as other community endeavors throughout the year.

I have been told they have a 'secret' sauce for the spaghetti.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

School superintendent should not bow down to ACLU threat

Dear Editor:

Prayer before school sporting events has been a hot topic in school districts across the state lately. Religious groups on the right and liberal groups on the left have gotten involved, causing added pressures on school decision-makers.

On Sept. 2, a federal judge ruled against Mississippi's new school prayer law, which was a law many people in Hancock County were in favor of.

On Oct. 19, the Associated Press reported that Myrna Bourgeois, the Hancock County Schools superintendent, made an interesting judgment for Hancock County's schools.

After receiving a letter from the American Civil Liberties Union outlining the federal judge's decision and warning her themselves to end game prayer, Bourgeois decided that it would be best for our school district if prayer before games was stopped.

She was quoted in an AP article that ran in papers across the state as saying, "I felt like the letter was a warning to us. My opinion was that the letter was enough for me."

The Gulfport superintendent of schools, Carlos Hicks said after receiving the same letter from the ACLU that he has no intention of discontinuing prayer before games, even with the new ruling, unless he receives an official complaint.

If Gulfport can still pray, why can't we? Bourgeois discontinued prayer before the Oct. 28 games.

The catch here is that Bourgeois didn't cancel game prayer after the federal judge's ruling on Sept. 2. She continued to allow prayer, and this was good. But essentially what has happened now is that one form letter from a national left-wing group pushed Bourgeois into a corner she felt she couldn't get out of without giving in to their written request.

Who is the ACLU? They are a national organization who defend what they perceive as civil liberties — things like pornography, abortion, gay and lesbian rights and affirmative action, just to name a few.

It takes many qualities to be an effective superintendent, and it is a difficult job. However, the superintendent's primary responsibility is to our children and the people who voted for her, not the ACLU. Perhaps Bourgeois thinks game prayer could potentially be detrimental to our children and she's only helping the ACLU protect their civil liberties.

Bourgeois was elected in a district that is predominantly Catholic and Baptist. Both of these religions, as well as many other religions, have taken an active stand against issues that the ACLU champions.

If Bourgeois will back down just from a warning letter from an organization like the ACLU about game prayer, where will this stop? It won't take long for them to get the impression that Hancock County is easily bullied.

The next letter they send could be a warning to her to include "the new American family" (gay and lesbian parents) in our school system's curriculum. Would she consider that a warning and let that be enough for her?

The bottom line is this: Is Myrna Bourgeois representing the people who voted for her?

She lives in a district, unlike many others across the state, where religion is flourishing and people want to pray before school sporting event.

More importantly, is she truly acting in the best interests of our children?

Sincerely,

Kay Cerisier

To the Editor:

As a former school board member for the Bay-Waveland School District, it causes me great concern when I see policies not enforced the same for all students.

Each year the administration and faculty put together a student handbook to provide policies and rules to be followed the next school year. (Handbook is approved by the board.)

One area included in the book is size limits on various squads, a policy I believe to be very necessary. Although no coach ever likes to have to cut a child, from a realistic standpoint it is impossible to have unlimited numbers.

The coaches are asked for recommendations on the number of players they are comfortable having on a squad, and that amount is included in the handbook.

I have had a child told they did not make the squad, and I believe that is the way it has to be when you have 70 try out for baseball or 50 for cheerleader.

I have seen students cut from cheering, softball, basketball, tennis, baseball and in the past, soccer.

Just this week, after other students were cut from softball, basketball and even girls soccer this year, the board has now changed the size of the boys soccer team for this year.

Board member helping coach? Coincidence that a board member has a child who may not have made the cut?

Let's have the same rules for all, including the board members. Seems fair to me, how about you?

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

New Congress must tackle welfare system

In 1992 President Clinton promised to "end welfare as we know it." It never happened. Two years later the welfare system keeps rolling along on autopilot and widespread resentment grows.

The president did offer a mild welfare reform bill to a disappointed Congress at the 11th hour. However, you could say it was too little, too late.

I believe that most hard-working, responsible and community-minded Mississippians would agree the 104th Congress must take the initiative to change what isn't working.

One plan sponsored by the Mainstream Forum, of which I am a member, would cut deeper into aid than anything the President has proposed so far. I think the plan incorporates the best ideas from both Democratic and Republican proposals.

A few of the plan's initiatives include a two-year lifetime limit on welfare benefits, greater penalties for deadbeat parents and non-U.S. citizens would be ineligible for food stamps and Supplemental Security Income programs. Most importantly, if you don't work, you don't get a paycheck.

I realize that there are a lot of people on public assistance who have real problems and who aren't trying to beat the system. But there are some whose irresponsible behavior can no longer be tolerated. I believe it is not only the government's responsibility but its right to stop benefits to those individuals.

Society must encourage welfare mothers to take responsibility for their own lives and the lives of their children. We must place mandates on mothers who seek Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits.

They must get job training and their kids must go to school. But also, let's go after the fathers of these children who are now dependent upon the government. Let's crack down on dead beat fathers by garnishing their wages and slapping criminal penalties on them for leaving a state to avoid child support payments.

I realize that many of our public assistance problems aren't going to disappear overnight, but I'm willing to give a welfare overhaul a try. However, the Mainstream Forum's plan, which I strongly support, cannot solve the welfare problem alone.

In the past when someone lost a job or someone took ill, family, friends, church and communities rallied to help get them back on their feet. This still happens today for some folks, but it seems that more and more people are just too busy to lend a hand. Those in real need must rely more on government or charities simply to survive. This is a very sad development because government cannot take the place of the family, the church and the community. If family, community and church fade from our society, we'll have nothing left

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Government regulations hinder job growth

Throughout much of America's history, politicians have used job creation as a selling point to gain support among voters. They may cite new industry they have helped bring to the community, business development encouraged through tax incentives (which is very effective), or new government programs they support to provide employment for the voters.

But there is something politicians could do to create jobs throughout the entire nation that would be more effective than all these, and it's sitting right under their noses.

They could reduce the web of government regulations which keeps nearly all businesses from growing, the therefore, providing jobs — not just more jobs, but better jobs.

A nationwide business analysis by The Kiplinger Washington Letter, a well-respected business periodical which has been in publication since 1923, has predicted that hiring will remain flat in 1995. Why? The publication's business sources said, "Fringes and government regulations kill us. That's why we resist hiring." The report said that businesses, instead, will be relying on overtime and temporary workers.

And in a recent survey conducted by the Florida Chamber of Commerce, 65 percent of its members listed government regulation as the primary obstacle to their ability to make profits.

In this state, similar business surveys conducted by the Mississippi Economic Council have come back with much the same answer.

The Council acknowledges that most federal regulatory legislation is well intended, but the evidence is clear:

Government should worry less about creating jobs through expensive federal programs and worry more about the jobs they are killing through expensive government regulations.

Board to put contract on hold

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

The Hancock County School Board made some decisions Tuesday about what to do concerning a roofing problem that they have at Gulfview Elementary School.

The board decided to have board attorney Steve Benvenutti put the contractor, Steel Building Enterprises, and their bonding company, on notice of general conditions so that the contract with them could be terminated.

The board approved a recommendation by Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois to deny payment to Steel Building Enterprises in the amount of $97,290, due to extensive damage to the building and because the work schedule was not adhered to. The school district has been working to get a standing seam metal roof placed on the elementary school since the first of the year.

Since nearly all of the roof has been removed by the contractor, but has not adequately been replaced, some damage has occurred to the building and its contents.

Architect for the project John Mykolyk said that he could get the school board an estimate of damage caused by rain to the building.

Another problem that the school district is facing is getting a survey done so that work can be planned better and work can be completed on a four classroom addition.

The board had tried to get county engineer Barry Seal to do the work, but problems with that led the board to decide to contract the work out to another engineer.

The board instructed assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey to find an engineer that would do the work for them.

Board President Cheryl Bennett said that the survey must be completed before electrical work on the four classroom addition could be finished and work could be started on the media center.

Seal, Hancock County engineer, said he would be glad to do the work, but he has to be paid. He said he has lost the money, Bennett said.

In other matters, the board approved a bid from Samuel B. Day Construction in the amount of $19,900 for a lift station at the School for Success.

Accepted a settlement from Crawford Insurance Company in the amount of $20,500 for the bus involved in an accident on Hwy. 90 on Oct. 25.

The board will meet again at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at Hancock High School.

tion Service inmates.

Peterson said that by building the wall and putting in a special soundproof door between the adult facility and the area where the juveniles were planned to be held they have met state mandates, but they are not meeting federal mandates.

"The juveniles have to be out of sight and sound of adults. They said that the way we have it set up, when the adults are in the exercise area they are within sight and sound," Peterson said.

Peterson did offer the suggestion of placing the juveniles in a modular type building behind the Hancock County Youth Court Building.

"I feel that a building that would have four male inmate cells and four female inmate cells would be adequate," Peterson said.

Another problem that will have to be addressed is the hiring of separate guards for female and male juveniles.

"We cannot have any guards that also work with adult inmates. They have to be completely separate," Peterson said.

The county usually does not hold the juveniles very long, Peterson said, before they are sent to training schools, either in Columbia or Oakley.

Juveniles that are arrested on misdemeanor cases are being released to their parents until there is an opening at one of the training schools, Peterson said.

Those juveniles arrested on felony charges, such as armed robbery and drive-by shootings, are being charged as adults. Those juveniles which are 17 years old are also being charged as adults, Peterson said.

the room, leaving the couple to find their own way out.

The next contact, of course, would not come from me but from one of them. I cannot honestly say that I am eager to hear from them, especially from the all-knowing male.

I was pointedly reminded of the time I witnessed a marriage which endured but 30 days. Over the years, I have refused to witness about six marriages for reasons ranging from premarital infidelity to bare-faced male chauvinism.

"If you insist on getting married," I told them, "get someone else to witness your marriage."

There is a know-it-all or devil-may-care attitude in so many to-be-marrieds that it should frighten us all. Focus and energy which should be directed toward mental, emotional and spiritual preparation for marriage are consumed in trifles.

The worst trifles of all are usually the expense and fuss. Only one thing is necessary, as Jesus quoted of Adam and Eve: "The two of them become one body" (Gn. 2: 24).

Marines' birthday celebrated

Nov. 10 was the United States Marine Corps 219th birthday and Marines and former Marines celebrated with the traditional Marine Corp Ball. The Marine Corps is the only branch of the Armed Forces that celebrates its birthday.

James R. Williams hosted a "ball" at his home in Diamondhead that was dedicated to the memory of Lloyd Phillips and Ed Kelly, decorated veterans.

Traditional Marine fare was served: SOS (creamed chipped beef over toast), baked beans and bologna and cheese sandwiches.

The birthday cake was decorated with the Marine Corp emblem and inscribed Semper Fi and USMC.

Capt. Tony Esau, USN, Retired, Annapolis 1961, cut the cake with his Academy sword. Colonel John Wyatt, USMC, Retired, was senior officer present. He helped cut the cake.

The movie shown during the ball was "To The Shores of Tripoli" starring John Payne and Randolph Scott.

The setting was San Diego boot camp MCRD Marine Corp Recruit Department, Circa 1941.

Eldercare Locator finds support resources for older persons

U.S. Assistant Secretary for Aging Fernando M. Torres-Gil announced that the Eldercare Locator — a nationwide, toll-free, directory assistance service providing access to information about home and community services that help older persons — has been funded for an additional three years.

Torres-Gil also stated that since its inception as a demonstration project three years ago, the Eldercare Locator reached a landmark number of 100,000 calls.

"We are very pleased with this record number of phone calls primarily because it means that the Eldercare Locator service has helped thousands of callers locate resources that help people lead healthy, independent lives in their later years," Torres-Gil added.

Anyone can call the Eldercare Locator at 1-800-677-1116, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. (Eastern Time). The service helps link callers to information about community organizations that provide meals, transportation, housing, home care, legal and other community services, enabling older persons to remain independent in their own homes.

"Whether there is an immediate need or information is required for long-term planning, calling the Eldercare Locator is the way to find the best source of information about the community where the older person lives," Torres-Gil said.

"Plus, as a nationwide service, the Eldercare Locator helps ease the strain of long-distance caregiving."

The Eldercare Locator is a public service of the Administration on Aging, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and is administered by the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging and the National Association of State Units on Aging.

A handy brochure describing the Eldercare Locator service is available by writing the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging, 1112 16th Street, N.W., Suite 100, Washington, DC, 20036-4823.

Bay-Waveland Board meets

BY CHARLIE MARSHALL
The Bay-Waveland School Board devoted more than 2 1/2 hours to taking care of business and finance when they met on Monday night.

Present for the meeting were board president James Wilcox and board members David Turcotte and Richard Flowers. Tracy Joseph and Linda Penrose were absent.

The first part of the meeting was closed to the public in order for the board to listen to parents who requested to be on the agenda. Student matters were discussed and one student, identified only as Student A, was expelled for the remainder of the school year. Parents Debra Dora and Theresa Dugre consulted with the board about how to deal with payment of the new playground equipment ordered for Waveland Elementary School. They were advised by legal council that they will have to go through a bidding process because the cost exceeds the limit to sole source the order.

Richard Flowers initiated action to establish a junior varsity soccer team as a feeder program to develop the school system's soccer program for next year. He said the team could pick up some games for the current season since they would not have a schedule. Superintendent Paul Tisdale voiced his opinion that he preferred to initiate such a move in the spring because the student handbook makes references to a limited number of participants in each sporting activity.

But, the board, after discussion, voted to expand the limits of participation in the soccer program to 34.

The board authorized the purchase of dictionaries for the English classes and approved making necessary repairs of the plumbing at Bay High School gym. Administrative assistant Billy Rhodes said he went over all the requirements with a plumbing contractor. The school will arrange for repairs on repairs and proceed with repairs on one school at a time.

Rhodes also reported on the installation of the concrete poles and safety equipment on the baseball field.

The board rejected a low bid made on a copier among surplus property that the system is disposing of. They accepted other bids and drew names to determine who won the tie bids.

The board authorized payment for a number of other expenses, including trips to be made by the cheerleaders and North Bay Elementary School principal Kim Stasny.

Hancock board reviews new program

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER
The Hancock County School system will be implementing a new program, which organizers say has shown tremendous success with special education students.

Barbara Keiser, with the University of Southern Mississippi's Institute for Disability Studies, discussed a program that will use horses to teach handicapped and children with Attention Deficit Disorder, as well as others, muscle control and increased attention span.

She said that the program will be worked in conjunction with a group from Kiln known as Gaits for Success.

"The program will be at no cost to the district. We will be working for funding through grants," Keiser said.

"We have seen children with cerebral palsy, who could not sit up and also had so little range of motion in their legs that they could not straddle a horse, at the end of nine months were able to sit up and straddle the animals," Keiser said.

She said that the horses being used have been specially trained to work with these types of children and that if accepted, Hancock would be the first school system in the state to implement such a program.

She said that physical therapists and other specialists would also be working with the children.

"I have no explanation for it, but when we use this program with children, they do not regress," she said.

The board voted Tuesday to pay the $25 to be added to the $1 million insurance policy that will be carried on the program.

What happens when a smoker stops?

What can smokers expect when they stop smoking? In order to prepare smokers for this year's 18th Annual Great American Smokeout Nov. 17, the American Cancer Society is offering information on withdrawal symptoms.

"Knowledge of what to expect can help make the sometimes difficult process of giving up cigarettes a much easier one for the quitter," says Phyllis Moran, executive director of the American Cancer Society.

"Anticipating symptoms aids in relieving them."

According to Moran, smokers will experience both physical and psychological withdrawal. The physical withdrawal takes about a week, but remember, your body begins the healing process almost immediately. Nicotine is largely eliminated from the bloodstream and the body tissues by the kidneys.

"To quicken this flushing and decrease cigarette cravings, quitters should drink plenty of liquids such as water and fruit juices, but not beverages that are associated with smoking, such as coffee and alcohol," says Moran.

According to the American Cancer Society, the first three to four days, when the bulk of the nicotine is being eliminated, are the most difficult. Most people will experience the worst withdrawal symptoms during that period.

These symptoms will include headaches, irritability, muscle aches and cramps, anxiety, visual disturbances, sleeping difficulties, a distorted sense of time perception, and an intense craving for tobacco. Less common symptoms include irregularity and sore gums or tongue.

Nicotine withdrawal subsides rapidly after the first three or four days. However, urges to smoke and increased appetite could be long-term.

Psychological withdrawal is often extremely complex and can last from weeks to years. The first two to three months after quitting is a critical period. It is then that people who go back to smoking will usually do so.

Some smokers will quit several times before becoming long-term quitters. Relapse becomes less likely as quitters stay off cigarettes for longer periods of time.

Exercise, even light exercise such as walking, can help quitters to stay off cigarettes and avoid or minimize weight gain. People who quit smoking are more likely to exercise than those who continue smoking.

The American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout is an upbeat, good-natured effort to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours, if only to prove to themselves that they can.

For more information call your local American Cancer Society at 601-896-7024 or call the Society's toll-free information line at 1-800-227-2345.

Mississippi Power has invested nearly $13 million in the Coast District on new facilities and upgrading and maintaining existing facilities over the past two years.

"We plan and forecast many years in advance so that we have facilities in place to meet anticipated growth, but in the past two years, growth has been significantly greater than expected," Eller said. "Our transmission and distribution employees have been working long hours to keep up with the rate of growth."

Major improvements to the company's facilities on the Coast are concentrated in Bay St. Louis and east Biloxi. In Bay St. Louis, the capacity of the Turner St. substation was increased in 1992. The capacity of the Cedar Lake Road substation in d'Iberville, which serves east Biloxi, was increased in 1994. In both instances, the work on the substations included modernizing protective devices and other equipment such as circuits and transformers to regulate voltage and improve reliability for customers in those areas.

Mississippi Power's territorial sales of electricity have increased about four percent annually over the past five years, and the forecast is for sales to continue to increase at that pace for the next five years.

NOTICE CONCERNING HOSPITAL SERVICES

Hancock Medical Center exists and operates without governmental subsidy in the same economic climate as the rest of our community. Our hospital currently provides quality patient care, but our costs related to this care are also escalating.

It has now become necessary that we require deposits and co-payments to be paid at the time of service to this facility.

Please be assured that your quality healthcare will remain our primary focus.

Kmart treats children to shopping spree

On Dec. 3, Kmart stores nationwide will welcome a special group of 48,000 young shoppers through their doors. Some will come prepared with shopping lists, others will pick out their purchases on impulse and, courtesy of Kmart, all will receive money to spend during the annual Kmart Children's Shopping Spree.

Kmart volunteers work with local civic groups to determine which children will attend the event. The volunteers help the children select their purchases and wrap the gifts during breakfast with Santa Claus.

Fall provides time for plant identification

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Fall is the time of year when gardeners send in unusual plants for identification. They usually want to know the kind of plant, how to take care of it and whether or not you can eat it.

Jack bean is one of these oddities. Fall usually is when gardeners ask questions about this plant because of its large beans.

Jack bean has the botanical name Canavalia ensiformis. The plant grows into a large bush and produces beans up to 14 inches long and about one inch wide. Each mature pod contains as many as 14 large, white beans with a dark eye. The fibrous, tough pod of the mature bean is not edible, but I have heard the young tender pods can be cooked and eaten like snap beans.

A close relative of Jack bean is a vine plant called sword bean, Canavalia gladiata. Mature pods on the two plants are similar, but sword bean seeds usually are red or pink.

I've not found either plant listed among poisonous plants, but the edibility of the mature beans as green-shelled or dry beans remains in question.

Roselle is another plant that appeared for identification this fall. It is a member of the mallow family and has the botanical name Hibiscus sabdariffa and several other common names, such as Jamaica sorrel, sour-sour, jelly okra and Florida cranberry.

Once widely grown in tropical areas, this cold-sensitive plant dropped out of popular culture for many years. Roselle first was described in the year 1576. In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, it was popular for making jams and jellies.

The plant part used for extracting juice is the calyx, which consists of 5 large, fleshy sepals. The juice tastes like cranberry in flavor.

We've all seen purple, green, lavender and white eggplant, but the small, bright red-orange eggplant arriving from Wayne County for identification was a surprise.

in Mississippi Gardens

Tomato-fruited eggplant is the common name since it looks like a miniature beefsteak tomato. The botanical name is Solanum integrifolium.

The small fruit is about 2 inches in diameter, three-fourths of an inch thick and full of seeds. Edibility is questionable, but the red, ripe fruit is very attractive.

Another plant brought for identification was the potato vine, Dioscorea bulbifera. This plant is a true yam and has large heart-shaped leaves.

The vine produces brown, globular-shaped tubers along the stem in the axils of the leaves. Depending on growing conditions, the tubers may be small or may reach the size of a baseball. The tuber in the soil that grows the vine increases in size with each growing season and can become quite large.

The potato vine is a tropical plant, making it very sensitive to cold and freezing temperatures. A heavy mulch may provide winter protection for the planted tuber during a mild winter. The tubers produced along the vine should be harvested before frost and held indoors at room temperature until spring.

While the cultivated forms are considered edible in Asia and Africa, the wild forms usually are bitter and poisonous. No easy way exists to distinguish the poisonous from the non-poisonous.

The poisonous types are very toxic. In Java the tubers are used to make fish poison. In tropical countries where the plant is common, large numbers of people have died from eating the poisonous types. Enjoy the vine for its pretty leaves, but keep the tubers away from small children and out of the stew pot.

Deadline set for contest

An amateur photography contest to find the best choice for the cover of the 1995-96 University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast bulletin is now underway.

"At the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast, we are interested in Coast citizens being involved in our activities," said Shelia White, academic support and public relations specialist for USM-Gulf Coast, who is coordinating the amateur photography contest.

"Each year, we publish a Gulf Coast Bulletin with a scenic front cover. The amateur photo contest will give local photographers an opportunity to have their photos considered for our 1995-96 publication."

The topic for the photo contest is USM-Gulf Coast, USM Gulf Park campus scenes or scenic south Mississippi, White said. The deadline for entry is Dec. 16.

Guidelines for the contest are:

— Only amateur photographers may enter. Amateur status is determined when the photographer does not receive a major part of his or her income from professional photographs.

— All entries become the property of USM and may be used in future publications. Credit will be given to the photographer for photos used in displays.

— The photographer should secure appropriate release

Jolly Rogers gives up phone bill collection

Allison Keller, owner of Jolly Rogers Printing said on Wednesday, her firm will no longer serve as a South Central Bell payment center after Thursday, Nov. 17.

Telephone customers are to pay by mail, or at the Gulfport, or Poyayune offices, Keller said.

Shoreline Park Baptist marks 30th anniversary

The 30th anniversary/homecoming of Shoreline Park Baptist Church will be Sunday, Nov. 20. Morning worship service will be at 11.

The Rev. Marty Romero, a former pastor, will be guest speaker. A covered-dish luncheon will follow in the church fellowship hall.

In 1964 the Waveland Baptist Church sponsored a mission, which was Shoreline Park Chapel located on the Waveland-Kiln Cut-off Road.

The chapel was destroyed by Hurricane Camille. A group of workers came from Clarksdale and another from Texas to help with clearing of debris in order to begin construction. The only thing from the old building that could be reused was the tip of the steeple which is still used on the church today.

The Rev. Richard Johnson has served as pastor since 1993. All former members and friends are invited to attend this special service.

Crusaders slip by Rocks

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
 On Tuesday night, the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws traveled to New Orleans to take on their sister school, the Brother Martin Crusaders. The game proved to be a battle on the court as the Crusaders survived a vicious Rock comeback to win 49-47.
 In the junior varsity game, the Rocks opened their schedule with Brother Martin. However, it was not the way to open a season. The JV Rocks lost to the Crusaders 74-35.
 The JV Rocks were down 37-20 at the half and were outscored 37-16 in the second half.
 David Cassreino led the Crusaders with 17 points followed by Scott Miller with 16 points.
 The JV Rocks were led by Chris McQueen, Matt Kopfler, and Clay Williams all with 9 points.
 In the varsity game, the Rocks played see-saw with the Crusaders for the lead. The lead extended as much as seven points for both teams. The Crusaders had the Rocks down 7 points late in the fourth period. Terry Lawyer led the Rocks back within two points. With :01 second left, Terry Lawyer went to the line for the Rocks. He missed the first shot and purposely missed the second in hopes of SSC getting the rebound. Brother Martin covered the ball for the win 49-47.

 Terry Lawyer led the Rocks with 21 points, 12 rebounds, and 1 steal. Brandon Benoit added 9 points, 4 assists, and 2 steals.
 Coach Jay Ladner commented, "It was a classic battle. Brother Martin is a very disciplined team and never thought they were out of it. We fought back but free throws are killing us. We shot 50% from the field but need to improve our free throws. Best of luck to the Crusaders this season, they are a fine ballclub."
 The Rocks next game will be Friday, November 18, against Hancock in Kiln. The Rocks are now 3-1 on the season.

with 9 points. The girls' record now stands at 1-3.

Rocks tie in tourney

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
 The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw soccer team opened its season this past weekend in the Gulfport Kick-off Classic Jamboree. The Rocks are the defending Division 8 Class 4A champions and have made it to the Final Four the past three years.
 The games were 35 minute games and included SSC, St. John, Harrison Central, Gulfport, Pearl, and Meridian.
 The Rocks played Harrison Central in the first game. SSC tied the Red Rebels 1-1. Harrison Central scored first on a corner kick at the 7 minute mark. Brad Cannon, the leading scorer for SSC last year, scored for the Rocks at the 27 minute mark.
 In the Rocks second game, they played the St. John Eagles. The Rocks lost 2-0 as the high flying Eagles scored at the 12 and 26 minute marks of the contest. The Rocks third game of the tourney pitted them against perennial Final Four participant Pearl. The game ended in a scoreless tie. The game was a defensive struggle as both teams had opportunities to score but couldn't capitalize.

 The final game for the Rocks in the tournament was against Meridian. The score was tied at 2-2. Meridian scored the first two goals. Their first goal came at the 4 minute mark of the contest and the second one at the 11 minute mark. After that, it was all SSC. The Rocks strored back with Ross Pitcan scoring at the 17 minute mark. He was assisted by Brad Cannon.
 The second goal for the Rocks was scored by Timmy Kingston off a rebound of his own shot at the 26 minute mark of the contest.
 The record for the Rocks now stands at 0-1-3 for the season.

College Football Highlights

Alabama and Auburn are two of the best teams in the country as the Southeastern Conference, Auburn and Alabama, who are two of the nation's best quarterbacks as well. Auburn's Steve Barker became the school's career passing yards leader two weeks ago, and Auburn's Patrick Nix has led the Tigers through another awesome season. Last year Auburn beat No. 11 Alabama at home, 22-14, with Nix coming off the bench to replace injured starter Stan White in the second half.

With the Crimson Tide leading 14-5, Nix threw a TD pass that proved to be the turning point, and the Tigers went on to end Alabama's three-game winning streak in this 101-year-old series. On Saturday, Auburn will make it two in a row over the Tide, by nine points.

In the unpredictable Big Ten, Michigan visits Ohio State, and the fight for second in the conference behind Penn State heats up. The Wolverines trounced the Buckeyes 28-0 in '93. "We were outplayed in every way," OSU coach John Cooper said afterward — so Ohio State wants this game badly. Wanting it won't be enough, though: Michigan will run its unbeaten (once-tied) streak over the Buckeyes to seven.

The Pacific-10 championship is still up for grabs, but Southern California will need to make short work of archrival UCLA to keep its title hopes alive. The Bruins have fallen far this year, but a USC blowout in the battle of L.A. would be unusual: Not only has UCLA won three straight from the Trojans, but the Bruins' 27-21 victory in the Coliseum last year was the largest margin of victory in this series since '88. We like USC by nine.

The best game in Virginia this year, Virginia at Virginia Tech, looks to be a battle of defenses: The Virginia Cavaliers' against the run, and the Tech Hokies' against the pass. The outcome may depend on which team's offense can muster some yardage and control the ball. Last year Virginia Tech took the lead early in Charlottesville and hung on to win 20-17. This week, the Cavaliers will return the favor.

In Cambridge, Mass., it's "The Game": Yale at Harvard. In '93, in their 110th meeting, the Yale Elis gave up three Crimson TD's in the fourth quarter but still came out on top, 33-31. This year, once again, both teams are well down in the Ivy League standings, but in this rivalry that doesn't matter. Harvard is the three-point favorite.

NFL Forecast for Sunday and Monday Nov. 20-21

Buffalo, 24—Green Bay, 22

The Bills have won four of the five times they've played the Packers, most recently 34-24 in '91. G.B. can defend anything Buffalo can throw or run at it, but the Bills have the edge at home.

Chicago, 19—Detroit, 16

Four weeks ago the Lions eked out a black-and-blue win over the Bears, 21-16. Detroit should run all over Chicago's leaky rushing defense, but the Lions haven't beaten the Bears twice since '83.

Dallas, 32—Washington, 20

They're still losing, but the Redskins are a better team than the one the Cowboys punished 34-7 in week five. Dallas will have to work to beat Washington twice for the first time in nine years.

Denver, 27—Atlanta, 23

This is a tough pick, especially with all the passing that may ensue: Both the Broncos and Falcons throw well, but neither has a clue when it comes to pass defense. They haven't met since '88.

Indianapolis, 17—Cincinnati, 12

Last year's TD-less 9-6 Colts win, on Dean Biasucci's 42-yard field goal with three seconds left in the game, was their fourth straight over the Bengals — and all four were played in Cincinnati.

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins' offense is better than L.A.'s, but the Raiders are a more talented mediocre team.

Miami, 30—Pittsburgh, 22

On a Monday night late last season, the Steelers withstood a fourth-quarter Miami rally to beat the Dolphins 21-20. This year's Miami's offense is well-rounded, while Pittsburgh's is grounded.

Minnesota, 34—N.Y. Jets, 17

The Vikings and Jets have played only four times, the Jets winning three but the last one 12 years ago. Reeling from tough games with the Colts, Bills and Packers, New York doesn't need Minnesota.

Philadelphia, 31—Arizona, 18

Two weeks go, the Eagles' Fred Barnett had 11 catches and the defense shone as Philadelphia beat the Cardinals 17-7. To prove that they're worthy in the NFC East, the Eagles must do it again.

San Diego, 29—New England, 21

It's ben fine with the Chargers that they haven't met the Patriots since '83, because up to that point N.E. had beaten them six times in a row. This year the Pats won't continue the streak.

San Francisco, 33—L.A. Rams, 14

In the third week of the season, Steve Young and receivers Jerry Rice and John Taylor gave the Rams' secondary fits in a 34-19 S.F. win. The 49ers should win their ninth straight over the Rams.

Seattle, 16—Tampa Bay, 10

Winners of the only two games they've played against the Buccaneers, the Seahawks are marginally better on offense and defense than T.B., which, of course, isn't saying much. A real thriller.

N.Y. Giants, 20—Houston, 17

(Monday) This game is nearly a tossup — in fact, to pick the Giants is to pick an upset, given N.Y.'s anemic offense and the Oilers' solid D. But Houston has never beaten the Giants, last losing in '91.

Maximum protection against both viscosity and thermal breakdown.

Rocks take title and are 3-0; Lady Tigers break losing streak and win title

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws and the Bay High Lady Tigers stormed through the competition and the Hancock County Basketball Tournament over the weekend to snare the titles for boys and girls.

The Bay High Lady Tigers snapped an 85 game losing streak on Thursday to start the tournament, and the Rocks sent a powerful message in the tourney averaging 84 points per game and allowing the opponents only 52 points per game.

On Thursday, the tournament opened with the Lady Tigers of Bay High taking on the Lady Eagles of St. John. Bay High jumped out to a 12-10 lead in the first period but found themselves in a recognizable place down 28-19 at the half.

At the end of the third period, the Lady Tigers were down 44-27 and things were not looking good. However, in the fourth stanza Bay High stunned the Lady Eagles by outscoring them 22-4 en route to their first victory since December 11, 1990.

Lisa Yarborough, who paced the Tigers with 20 points, tied the game late in the fourth at 48-48. Chanda Haley and Shannon Baker each hit key free throws down the stretch to seal the victory at 50-48. Haley pulled down 11 boards in the win.

In the second game of the night, SSC trounced the Bay High Tigers 82-27.

Debate team competes in tournament

In their first competition since the inception of the new speech and debate program at William Carey College, the eight-member team of students finished 14th out of 30 colleges and universities who participated in individual events competition at the Gateway Invitational Tournament at University of Missouri St. Louis.

Tony Mosely of Laurel and Suzanne Dubose of Mobile received top novice awards in Improvisational Duet Acting. The only first-time competitors to reach the final round, they placed sixth overall.

John Miller of Columbia finished fifth after advancing to the final round in persuasive speaking.

Other members of the team are Leanne Bennett of Diamondhead, Justin Brannon of Loranger, La., Yennis Dechile of Bay St. Louis, Verna Easterling of Hattiesburg, and Georgia Robos of Bay Minette, Ala.

A total of 55 schools from across the country competed, including Vanderbilt University, Michigan State University, University of Miami, University of Illinois and Kansas State University.

Tom Huebner, Carey's director of forensics, notes, "The U.M. St. Louis tournament is one of the most competitive in the country. Since we are a new program, I knew that we would need a high level of preparation. Our speakers represented our college well."

The team will travel next to Louisiana Tech University at Ruston.

Mary Kay Deen

Deen named finalist for Mississippi Hall of Master Teacher

Mary Kay Deen of Bay St. Louis has been named as a finalist to the 1994 Mississippi Hall of Master Teachers.

Deen is an elementary teacher at North Bay Elementary in Bay St. Louis. She holds a bachelor's degree in education from The University of Mississippi and has attended the University of New Orleans, Georgia State University, University of Southern Mississippi and Mississippi State University.

President of the local chapter of the Mississippi Association of Educators, she was named North Bay Elementary Teacher of the Year in 1991 and 1992 and Rotary Club Teacher of the Month in 1992.

The Mississippi Hall of Master Teachers was established in 1991 by MUW to honor Mississippi's outstanding teachers and to reward excellence in the field. Selections are based on overall contributions as a teacher, leadership qualities, contributions to curriculum and course development, teaching philosophy and influence on peers and students, professional activities, extra-curricular activities and community involvement. Educators nominated must have been teaching for a minimum of 15 years, seven of which must have been in the public schools of the state of Mississippi.

The winners will be announced at a luncheon on Friday, Dec. 2 on the Mississippi University for Women campus.

Chapter I workshop a success

"Listening and Talking" are activities we do all the time. Ways to really listen (to hear and understand what's being said) and ways to express one's self (to get the point across) were the topics discussed at the Chapter I Parent Workshop Nov. 10 at Bay Middle School.

Kathy Sambola, Northshore Resource Center director, stated these techniques work. Sometimes it takes patience and practice to help children deal with their feelings and engage their cooperation. New communication skills can enhance and encourage independence in children.

The book How To Talk So Kids Will Listen and Listen So Kids Will Talk by Adele Faber and Elaine Mazlish will be helpful to parents.

In January these parenting classes will be offered. For information or to sign up, call Barbara Cropp, Chapter I counselor, at 466-4913.

Three area scholars honored at reception

Three Hancock County students were among University of Southern Mississippi scholars honored during the annual USM Foundation Scholarship Reception Friday, Oct. 21.

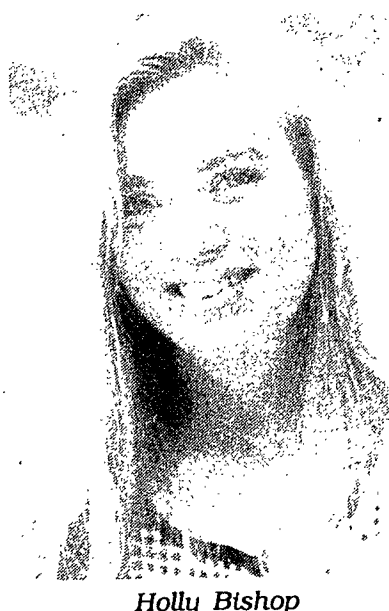

The annual reception gave scholarship recipients a chance to meet those who sponsored the scholarship they received for the 1994-95 school year. More than 350 scholarships are offered each year at USM through the USM Foundation.

The USM Foundation is a non-profit entity that serves as a conduit for all private funds donated to the University of Southern Mississippi. Private gifts to the university through the foundation are tax-deductible, within certain limits set by law.

Among those honored: — Traci Archer, daughter of Robert E. and Judy Metz of Bay St. Louis and a senior majoring in elementary education, received a Louise M. Hawkins Scholarship, given to a deserving student majoring in education or nursing.

— Holly Bishop, daughter of Marie B. Bishop of Diamondhead and a senior majoring in Spanish and criminal justice, received the American Legion Post 139 Scholarship, given to a worthy undergraduate who maintains a C average.

— Margaret "Megan" B. Johnson, daughter of Vernon and Elaine Ladner of Waveland and a sophomore polymer science major, who received the Brady Leo Van Huss Jr. Memorial Scholarship, which goes to a polymer science student who is a U.S. citizen from the southeast. She also received the Oliver Austin Scholarship, which goes to a capable and deserving student majoring in the physical sciences.

RECYCLE THAT OLD PHONE BOOK

Your new telephone book will be delivered soon. When it comes, don't throw your old one away! It's valuable, so recycle it! Every ton of phone books recycled saves 3.5 cubic yards of valuable landfill space. So recycling last year's book makes a positive impact on our environment.

Recycling is easy. You can do it one of three ways:

1. Just take your old phone book to your nearest school (or give it to a neighbor with school children.). All area schools are collecting used phone books between November 10 and December 9 and will recycle them for money!

Donate your book and help your favorite school earn some extra money!

2. Or just toss your old phone book into your blue recycling bin with your other recyclables during the week of December 5-9. All BFI customers in Harrison County and Ocean Springs and all Gulf Coast Recycling customers in Bay St. Louis can recycle their old phone books that way.

3. If you're not near a school and you don't have curbside recycling available, just drop your old book at one of the specially-marked phone book recycling bins located at:

- Diamondhead Plaza Shopping Center;
- Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in Colonial Plaza; or
- the Pascagoula Recycling Center at 4011 14th Street in Pascagoula.

The 1994 Directory Recycling Program is sponsored by:
